

Hokkaido University Faculty/School of Humanities and Human Sciences
Application Guidelines for Research Students in 2022
(International Students)

1. Admission Requirements and Enrollment Periods

To be admitted as a research student to the Hokkaido University Faculty/School of Humanities and Human Sciences, applicants must be university graduates who have, in principle, completed 16 or more years of school education. Students will enroll in either April or October.

2. Application Methods

To be admitted as a research student, the following three application steps must be completed: A. Pre-inquiry (by email) → B. Online application (examination fee payment) → C. Submission of application documents (by post).

When applying for admission, applicants must have 1 (one) academic member of the Faculty of Humanities and Human Sciences as a prospective supervisor. To obtain informal consent from prospective supervisors, contact the Student Affairs Section (please do not contact your prospective supervisor directly). Be sure to check the details in A. Pre-inquiry in 3. Application Procedures below. For information about academic faculty members, see the website of the Faculty/Graduate School/School of Humanities and Human Sciences below.

Faculty list: <https://www.let.hokudai.ac.jp/en/research/staff-f>

Note: For information about academic faculty members who will not be available to accept students in the academic year 2022, see the list titled Academic Members of the Faculty of Humanities and Human Sciences on page 7 of these application guidelines.
