

Envision 'Dancing Anthropology' Together: A Workshop on Reflecting on the Body, Society, and Research Through Butoh and Pole Dancing

Speaker

COKER Caitlin Christine

Associate Professor at Graduate
School of Humanities and Human
Sciences, Hokkaido University

Dr. Caitlin Christine Coker will present at this CHAIN seminar. Dr. Coker is a concurrent CHAIN faculty member. Drawing on her background as both a dancer and an anthropologist, she explores how knowledge and thought emerge through the practice of "dancing together." In this workshop, she will present her research to date. Participants will also be invited to move their bodies as they explore what can be achieved through dancing together and the research possibilities that this kind of embodied practice opens up. We hope you will all join us!

Date and Time

Tuesday, September 8, 2026, 3:00–5:00 p.m.

* Please call 315 on the intercom. We will unlock the automatic door.

Languages

English and Japanese (bilingual)

For more details

Venue

CHAIN Seminar Room, Mid-Campus Open Laboratory Building 2, 3rd Floor,
Hokkaido University *In-person only (no online option).

* This workshop involves physical practice. Please wear comfortable clothing suitable for movement.

Organizer: Center for Human Nature, Artificial Intelligence, and Neuroscience,
Hokkaido University <https://www.chain.hokudai.ac.jp>

Contact Information : office@chain.hokudai.ac.jp

